A VEXATIOUS FOREIGN ANGLE

This country is facing a serious problem in dealing with the Japanese question in California and the time has arrived when those speaking for the United States should be men of mature judgment, having a full knowledge of the situation and devoid of the flamboyant and bombastic.

A dispatch from Washington says Japan has made formal demand upon the United States that unjust discrimination against her citizens in California be considered by the two governments and a decision reached without delay.

The trouble arises out of the referendum act by which California aims to deprive citizens of Japan from ownership or control of land in that state.

A press dispatch, in giving the history of the negotiations of late, says Japan contends that it is the duty of the federal government to take precautionary measures that will protect the Japanese from any discriminatory action California might take. It was made clear by state department officials, however, that this government will decline to deal with the situation until the issue is made complete by passage of the proposed referendum act. It was indicated that negotiations are of such a character that they cannot be concluded in haste and that they might even be in progress until after the present administration has completed its term of office. It will then be incumbent upon the next administration to take final step. The present situation, it was pointed out, is entirely different and far more serious than the one with which William Jennings Bryan found himself face to face when he was secretary of state. On that occasion the government faced an act by the California legislature which might be amended. The proposed new law in California is based upon a referendum over which the department of state has no influence whatever, and which it admits is sure to pass.

It was stated at the department of state that in such a controversy as that with Japan, the view obtains abroad that the federal government is responsible for the acts of any state. One official recalled the fact that when the United States disclaimed responsibility for the lynching of certain Italian citizens in New Orleans, Baron Fava, the Italian ambassador, informed the department that if the United States could not protect Italian citizens in that state, his government would send warships to protect them.

THOMPSON'S GREAT POWER

Once more Mayor Thompson of Chicago has demonstrated his political power in Illinois. His candidate for governor, Len Small, if defeated, will lose only by a narrow margin, and his candidate for senator, Frank Smith, is running neck and neck with William B. McKinley, his opponent.

Even though defeated, Mayor Thompson proves his power and makes clear to everyone that a vast voting strength in Chicago, and in the entire state of Illinois, was in sympathy with Thompson's anti-American attitude during the great war.

It is scarcely believable that the man who, as mayor of Chicago, warned General Joffre not to visit that city at a time when America had just gone in to the struggle for human rights, could retain a following large enough to almost dominate one of our big political parties.

There is a sinister aspect to a condition which so nearly places the reins of government in the hands of an alien element.

GOVERNOR COX IN THE WEST

In his Utah speeches, Governor James M. Cox, Democratic candidate for president, said he had gained a vast fund of information and deeper sense of the greatness of the United States by his visit to the west, and he was of the opinion that no man should be made president who did not thoroughly know the point of view and the needs of this part of the country.

It has been only within the last few years that presidential candidates thought sufficiently well of the region known as the Rocky mountain country to give attention or pay a visit to this region.

But the west has become debatable ground politically and as a result, the discerning candidate does the politically-wise thing when he appeals in person for the support of the group of states inland from the fringe of the Pacific coast.

THE VICTORY OF PEACE

When Marshal Petain of France married Madame Haddon, the old warrior gained a victory not less satisfying than that of Verdun. When the famous military man was young he knew the bride and loved her. But in those days he failed to deeply impress the young lady and another suitor won her affections.

During the years since then, many events have come to pass. Perhaps the most important, as affecting the lives of those in this romance, was the drive of the crown prince's army on the Verdun salient, and the brilliant and heroic defense of the citadel by the forces under Marshal Petain.

Certain it is that General Petain has not a faint heart, and that fact may account for his last triumph.

FARMERS ADVISED TO HAVE HAY INSPECTED

SALT LAKE, Sept. 16.—Because of the alfalfa weevil, Wyoming, Montana, Colorado and Oregon have quarantined against entrance of hay unless it is inspected, and for this reason Harold R. Hagan, state crops and pest inspector, has advised Utah alfalfa shippers to make certain that their shipments are thoroughly inspected.

Several carloads recently shipped into Montana have been found to be infected, and on these shippers must pay the penalty exacted by the quarantine regulations. More than that, the hay frequently becomes a total loss and incurs added charges for transportation.

"Shippers of alfalfa," said Mr. Hagan, "need not assume these risks if they will have their shipments inspected by deputies of the crops and pests commission. The inspection is done free of charge and is for the purpose of protecting our producers against the risk of shipping out alfalfa which is infected with weevil."

ABOUT THAT JOB!

What It Is--What It Pays--
What It Leads To

TELEPHONE OPERATING

By Elizabeth Arnold.

Of State City Free Employment Service, Cleveland, O.

If you are a school girl, a college girl, a teacher, or if you are employed in an industry which has a slack season, you may wish that you were trained for some special work so that you could depend on employment each summer, or part time during the school year so that you could increase your wages or earn enough to pay your expenses. Yet you may not care to spend a great deal of time or money on your training. A number of college girls have acted as telephone operators in their spare time during their college course.

THE FIELD.

Lots of girls make up their mind that they don't want to be telephone operators without knowing anything about the work. There are many advantages to telephone operating that you may not realize.

In the first place you are paid while you train. The training is not long and you are assured a definite rate of increase at the end of two months and further increase at regular intervals. When experienced, you are frequently able to get part-time work that pays very well, or you may take private switchboard work in offices buildings, industrial plants or public institutions.

The work is "seated," which is a big advantage if you find it hard to be on your feet or if you are tired of work that has kept you standing and want a change. In case you stick to the work, supervisors' positions offer good opportunity for advancement and good pay.

The telephone operators also work in a more protected atmosphere than most women who are employed. Every effort possible is usually made to provide good working conditions, adequate rest and lunch rooms, rest periods, and sanitary accommodations. Probably the greatest objection to the work is that the telephone company has to serve the public all night.

QUALIFICATIONS.

If you have a sensitive throat, or are subject to coughs, if you have ear trouble, or if you have a nervous, irritable temperament you would probably find telephone operating very hard on you and should avoid it. It is semi-clerical work, rather confining, and requires good health and steady nerves. If you are the right type, the work will not wear on you.

Girls between 16 and 18 years of age average from $5 to $7 per month the first two months, and girls over 18 years of age average from $7 to $8 per month the first two months with increases at regular intervals.

STEVENSON STORY IS BASIS OF NEW TOURNEUR PICTURE

"The White Circle," Exciting Picture of Love and Adventure, Showing Here

The faithfulness with which Maurice Tourneur translated the spirit and dash of "Treasure Island," to the screen is repeated in his picturization of another Stevenson story, "The Pavilion on the Links." This exciting tale of adventures and romance on the lonely Scotch sand dunes comes to the films under the rather more expressive title of "The White Circle," and will be shown at the Alhambra theatre beginning today.

The story deals with the attempted escape of a London banker who has abandoned the funds of an Italian secret society. Enlisting the aid of a gentleman-adventurer, Northrup, the banker promises him the hand of his daughter, provided his escape is successful. On the Scotch dunes, where they land from a yacht, Northrup's enemy, Cassilis, unexpectedly appears and becomes involved in the world adventures that follow.

Spotlighted Aitken, Janice Wilson, Harry Northrup, and Jack Gilbert are the leading figures in the cast of "The White Circle." It is a Paramount Artcraft picture.

MADAM CAPIAU HERE AFTER SIX MONTHS' VACATION

Madam Capiau is rejoicing to be back in Ogden after an absence of six months. She has reopened her dress-making parlors on the third floor of Wright's store. Most of the time was spent in Kansas City, where the Madam underwent an operation in the Wesley hospital. Since being released from the hospital she has had time in which to study style tendencies for the coming seasons.

She declares that with the help of the mountain air and the pure water here, her health has wonderfully improved.

POISON GAS IS TOPIC OF LEAGUE

Permanent Armaments Group of Society of Nations at Work on Problems

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—The employment of poison gas as a weapon of war and the control of traffic in arms and munitions are two of the important questions now under consideration by the commission on permanent armaments of the league of nations, according to advices received here by the League to Enforce Peace.

This commission was appointed by the league council at its recent meeting at San Sebastian, Spain, to deal with the problem of preventing future wars by a general regulation of national armaments. It has organized itself into three subcommittees—military, naval and aerial.

In a statement regarding the activities of this commission, the league secretariat points out that the council, to which the commission will report, has no power to interfere on the question of national armaments beyond making recommendations, and that there is nothing to compel any state to act upon such recommendation except the force of public opinion.

POWERS OF LEAGUE.

The actual powers of the league with regard to armaments, says this statement, may be summed up under the headings of enquiry, recommendation, and the exercise of public opinion. The league's most definite powers, perhaps, are contained in Article I, which provides that no new member may be admitted to the league until it accepts such regulations as may be prescribed by the league in regard to its naval, military and air forces and armaments. This provision is applied to all states who are not yet members of the league, and who have applied, or who hereafter apply for admission. More detailed provisions relating to members of the league are contained in Articles 8 and 9. These provide that the council, taking account of the geographical situation and circumstances of each state shall formulate plans for reduction of armaments for the consideration and action of the several governments. The council may therefore consider the question of the armaments of the world, draw up what appears to it as an equitable basis of armaments, and then submit it to the various nations.

PUBLIC OPINION.

The council has no power to interfere on the question of national armaments beyond this form of recommendation. There is nothing to compel any state to act upon it except the force of public opinion. The covenant also lays down the principle that after these plans have been adopted

Hot towels, which make the skin tender, are not needed with Palmolive. Neither is finger rubbing, which means delay just when men are most in a hurry.

Both lather and lotion

This lather is creamy and tenacious. It stays moist and foamy 10 minutes.

Palmolive is also a lotion. It contains palm and olive oils. So the tenderest face requires no other application.

HEAVY BEET YIELD IN TWIN FALLS DISTRICT

TWIN FALLS, Sept. 15.—Nearly a million dollars will be paid to sugar beet growers in the Twin Falls district. The crop this year is expected to average 12 tons per acre, yielding a total of 57,500 tons from 4800 acres in crop. These figures are based on the estimate of James Scilley, district agriculturist for the Amalgamated Sugar company.

In payment for this crop growers will receive a total of $864,000, with possibility of a bonus in advance of $15 per ton guaranteed price. The Amalgamated factory here has been remodeled, increasing its daily grinding capacity from 800 to 1000 tons, and giving an output of 300 bags of sugar daily.

A Demonstration of Real Economy: 2 lbs. of Mazola Fried 208 Doughnuts—2 lbs. of Lard Fried Only 138

MRS. A. LOUISE ANDREA—awarded the gold medal at the Panama-Pacific Exposition as lecturer on food and culinary topics—in a comparative test recently fried 208 doughnuts in 2 lbs. of Mazola, while only 138 could be fried in the same amount of lard.

At the same time this expert fried 24½ lbs. of potatoes in 2 lbs. of Mazola, as against 7 lbs. 14 ozs. fried in 2 lbs. of lard.

Also, she fried 25¼ lbs. of fish steak, cut to a uniform thickness of one inch, in 2 lbs. of Mazola. Two lbs. of lard fried only 16½ lbs.

This means that Mazola is from twice to more than three times more economical to use than lard, on the basis of actual accomplishment.

In each test, 4 lbs. each of Mazola and lard were fried down to 2 lbs. This confirms the experience of the seven million housewives who already use Mazola, the Great American Cooking Oil.

Further than this, because Mazola is a 100% pure vegetable oil there is no loss from evaporation, nor no loss of bulk from heating. It remains sweet and clean, and can be used over and over again, merely strain it.
